EUROPEAN SALVAGED COLLECTION

Salvaged from a collection of old European homes, barns and industrial buildings scheduled for demolition, these oak lumbers have travelled an amazing journey surviving unscarred through a plethora of European conflicts and two world wars.

“Inspired by our founders’ infectious enthusiasm for wood, we at imondi are obsessed. The list of useful implements that can be crafted from wood is infinite and amazing.

We welcome you to avail yourselves of the gorgeous wood we have humbly attempted to shape into beautiful floors. We focus on handcrafted and sustainable slab rescue – working with wood rescued from old boats, barns, even poles from the Venetian canals. Our passion for design and craftsmanship inspires us to produce innovative one-of-a-kind floors that highlight the materials from which they are derived.”

Lisa Li-Seliger, Director

1. BRAND STORY

imondi is a pioneer in the design and production of flooring & wall cladding made from reclaimed wood.

British-owned, Shanghai-based with in-house design and production facilities, imondi has emerged as a full-solution partner for some of the world’s leading designers & architects, particularly those with an eye to innovation and sustainability.

Founded in 1999, with offices in Shanghai, Hong Kong and The Netherlands; imondi has supplied installations in design award-winning hotels, retail spaces and residential properties in 30 countries throughout Europe, North America and Asia.

2. HISTORY

As craftsmen, the challenge we often face is to create something unique and special based on our clients’ vision. Specifying the right material is essential, especially for a project that demands a vintage or unique appearance.

The trees from which the timber was derived grew in ancient forests rich in biodiversity. They were felled when they reached maturity-often hundreds of years old-and possessed features that cannot be seen in the new timbers of today: denser grains, unmatched size and richer, deeper colours. These features imbue the timber with an intrinsic beauty and durability that is unsurpassable by new timber.

The 17th Century was one of the most important centuries in the making of the modern world that still contributes to our current time, such as helping to preserve our forests. So, in choosing reclaimed timbers, you are not only choosing to work with a material that has stood the test of time, but you are also making a sustainable choice. We pride ourselves on re-discovering the beauty of the past and creating the opportunity for this unique product to be appreciated and shared by the generations of the future.

3. CRAFTSMANSHIP

imondi believes that the heritage and legacy continues to live on within the wood.

Great products come from fine materials and meticulous craftsmanship. imondi's skilled craftsmen are passionate about what they create.

At first, individual lumbers are carefully selected and await our creative craftsmen to turn them carefully and slowly into something extraordinary, once again. The expert eye of our artisans analyse the individual board they are working on, recognizing each individual beautiful characteristic for what it is and considering how best to treat and repair it. Imperfections and erosions caused by the passage of time are worked on with highly disciplined hand-work to bring out the characteristics of the wood. And each individual board is finished in the individual style of the specific artisan who works on it. imondi's craftsmen, through the use of traditional methods, produce a floor that we believe sets the standard globally for the reclaimed industry.

4. PROJECTS

imondi was the first company in China to win the Architizer A+ Awards | Products + Sustainability category; nominated as “Global Architecture’s most sustainable product of 2014”. imondi has become a byword for innovative, design-driven and sustainable wood flooring. Over the past few years, imondi has been wood flooring supplier of choice in award-winning architectural projects globally. We like to say that “imondi tells the story in every piece of wood”.

PRODUCTS

imondi typically supplies planks prefinished with either oil or lacquer, helping bring life to the environment the planks are installed in. These finishes give the wood longer life expectancy and allow the wood to breath and adapt.

LACQUER

Look

- 1. Thick and clear protective coat giving the wood an apparent shine.
- 2. Stronger than oil and a more prominent aesthetic look.

Maintenance

- 1. Easy to clean.
- 2. For residential purpose, once or twice a year. For commercial use once or twice a month.
- 3. Please refer to our maintenance section, on www.imondi.com, for more details.

Repair

- 1. All repairs must be done by a professional or by a person with knowledge in hard wood floor wood.

NATURAL OIL

Look

- 1. Thin, transparent protective coat that gives the wood a very natural appeal.
- 2. Less strong than lacquer in smell and feel.
- 3. Environmentally friendly; since oil is natural it is made from eco-friendly material.

Maintenance

- 1. Sweep daily for longer lasting floors. NOTE: must clean any blemish or stain within 16 hours to keep fluid from penetrating the wood.
- 2. For residential purpose, once or twice a year. For commercial use once or twice a month.
- 3. Please refer to our maintenance section, on www.imondi.com, for more details.

Repairs

- 1. Light individual scratches can be easily repaired by hand by the end-customer.
- 2. Deep scratches or damage should be repaired by a professional.
